

It is with regret I have learned our PEACE may be interrupted once more. We the citizens of Indiana have been enjoying our dinners without having to listen to or be rude to telemarketers. Please reconsider your actions. Our State Att. Gen. has done us a great service by getting this law enacted. While I sympathize with those folks trying to make a living I do not do business over the phone and some won't take the first no and I must either hang up or get verbally rude. Neither is my choice, it is the situation which dictates. Mr. Carter understood our plight and acted to relieve us of the annoyance.

Respectfully,        Mr. and Mrs. James Hough
